

Sharing life with refugees

THEY WERE ONCE productive members of society. Now they sat in cubicles, bored, waiting for the system to process their papers. A man and his wife came one day, carrying buckets of paint and brushes. Finally—something to do!

The refugees painted walls with scenes of the homelands they missed. Syrian families drew pictures depicting blood and war. They worked for hours, asking for photos to be taken beside their artwork.

Another day, a group of men arrived, bringing donated bicycles and tools to fix the broken ones. Children played on them. Adults rode them to the station to catch a train to the language classes they so desperately needed to integrate into society and get jobs.

Other groups who knew the heart languages of the refugees came to listen to their stories of life in war-torn countries and the dangerous journeys they had taken to land in Europe. Buckets of paint, bikes, and listening ears were used by God to provide opportunities to share life with refugees and to tell the news of hope and peace that comes through Jesus Christ.

Film, conversations lead to salvation

WHILE VISITING REFUGEES in a European country, two believers had many opportunities to share their faith in Christ. In a two-week period, they extended conversations beyond casual greetings with two families of 10 to 12 people. They met with them multiple times around meals and cups of tea or coffee.

On the last visit, the couple sat in a tent packed full of people to view a film in Arabic about Jesus. During the showing, the group was so silent that one could have heard a pin drop. When the scene turned to Christ being beaten and subsequently nailed on the cross, some turned their faces away from the screen and others' eyes filled with tears.

Once the film concluded, conversation began again as the Christians spent more time talking with the family members, this time about the film. That day, new believers walked out of that tent! Since then, they have learned more about their new faith and have asked for baptism. Pray that they will be baptized soon.

You are my hiding place and my shield; I hope in your word.
(Psalm 119:114, ESV)

It began with a dream

AT THE AGE of 7, Benjamin* began having dreams about Jesus, who appeared to him and told him that He was the true Way. As a member of an entirely Muslim family in the Levant, Benjamin questioned these dreams and began his quest for truth. Should he follow the teachings of Muhammad or of Jesus?

At 14, Benjamin had another dream in which Jesus touched his head. He then decided that Jesus truly is “the Way”. At 21, after struggles with more questions and doubt, he finally put his faith in Christ. The ensuing persecution from friends and the community around him caused Benjamin to begin a journey to find freedom and a place where he could worship Jesus without fear.

After traveling through Turkey and Greece, Benjamin successfully arrived in another Western European country where he now lives in a bunker, waiting for his asylum application to be processed. Ask for asylum to be granted and for his family to worship Jesus in spirit and in truth.
